Terry Tempest Williams was born in 1955 and grew up within sight of the Great Salt Lake. Her writing reflects her intimate relationship with the natural world. She is the author of several books including Pieces of White Shell - A Journey to Navajoland (1984); Coyote's Canyon (1989); Refuge - An Unnatural History of Family and Place (1991); An Unspoken Hunger Stories from the Field (1994); and most recently, Desert Quartet - An Erotic Landscape (1995). Collaborations include Great and Peculiar Beauty - A Utah Reader edited with Thomas J. Lyon (1995); Testimony - Writers of the West Speak on Behalf of Utah Wilderness edited with Stephen Trimble (1996) and the forthcoming anthology, The New Genesis - Mormons Writing On Environment (1998).

Ms. Williams has said that she writes "through my biases of gender, geography, and culture, that I am a woman whose ideas have been shaped by the Colorado Plateau and the Great Basin, that these ideas are then filtered through the prism of my culture — and my culture is Mormon. Those tenets of family and community that I see at the heart of that culture are then articulated through story."

Terry Tempest Williams was identified by Newsweek as someone likely to make "a considerable impact on the political, economic and environmental issues facing the western states in this decade." She was also recognized by the UTNE Reader as a "visionary," one of the UTNE 100 'who could change your life.' A recipient of the National Wildlife Federation's National Conservation Award for Special Achievement, she was recently inducted into the Rachel Carson Institute's Honor Roll.

She has served as naturalist-in-residence at the Utah Museum of Natural History and is currently the Shirley Sutton Thomas Visiting Professor of English at the University of Utah. Ms. Williams has received a Lannan Literary Fellowship in creative nonfiction along with a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1997. She lives with her husband Brooke in Salt Lake City, Utah.
